The Men Who Tamed the Cow-Towns Arthur Chapman

From inside the book:

NO capital in the golden age of French chivalry ever smacked more of adventure than did the little Western towns that were founded on the devious trail of the longhorn Texas steer to the Northern market during the decade following the Civil War. And no French king could have boasted more courageous Musketeers than those knights of the pistol who donned the badge of marshalship and held the cattle towns in check, and who first forced the reckless bravos of the border to admit the existence of such a thing as law.

Abilene, Dodge City, Ellsworth, Hays City, Newton—these and more were names that spelled Romance in the early days when Kansas was the great clearing house for Western cattle, and these small but strenuous places equalled their mining rivals, Deadwood, Tombstone and Leadville, in their daily clashes of armed men. The streets of the cow-towns were thronged with the hardiest of adventurers. The Paris of D'Artagnan held no more boldeyed swaggerers and rufflers than the typical cow-town of Abilene when the brief flame of its strangely brought prosperity was at its highest.
